Title of Project:	Dependent Judiciary and Unaccountable Judges: Judicial Corruption in Contemporary China
Type of Product (e.g., Book, Paper, Documentary Film, Serial Article):	Paper
Précis of 100 Words or Less:	This paper goes beyond the attribution of generalized behavioral pitfalls in corruption analysis by placing the analysis of China's judicial corruption in the context of the institutional peculiarities of its judiciary. It argues that in China judicial corruption takes place in a complex and unique institutional framework -- a structurally dependent and functionally unaccountable judiciary, and identifies the major institutional and organizational constraints shaping the corrupt conduct of judiciary agents.
